WE NOMINATE

Lewis Hastings Sarett, brilliant 33-year old chemist, who this coming week will become one of the youngest men ever to receive one of the American Chemical Society's top honors—the Leo Hendrik Baekeland Award annually presented in recognition of an outstanding contribution in the field of research. Currently serving as Assistant Director of Research of Merck & Co., Inc., and commuting between Princeton and Rahway, Sarett has been singled out for a national prize for having perfected a means of producing miracle-working cortisone, the compound that may well open a new era of medical science.

The "story of cortisone"—holding out hope to the millions afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis and rheumatic fever—has been a development in which Princeton can take great pride. In the early 1930's Wilbur W. Swingle, Conklin Professor of Biology, did much of the basic research on the adrenal glands of cattle. Other scientists scattered across two continents determined the chemical structure of the adrenal hormones and it was left to Sarett, working in the 1940's in weekly consultation with Everett S. Wallis, Hepburn Professor of Organic Chemistry, to link the 36 separate chemical reactions that made possible the amount of cortisone needed for testing and then for trial in patients.

Sarett, a native of Highland Park, Ill., and the Random Notes. Frost was recorded in these parts at mid-week as the thermometer dipped close to the freezing mark. Indications that last year's late Spring may be repeated are part of the reason for cancellation of the Community Flower Show, a pre-war innovation that had been a fixture on the Princeton scene for the past few years.

The value of new construction here is breaking records for the first three months, despite the government freeze on commercial building. Residential and institutional construction is booming. To the University's $600,000 Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the Seminary is adding a student union center evaluated at some $700,000.

Voting in Tuesday's primary elections (see below for results) was the lightest in many years. Here and there, slightly more than 10 percent of a district went to the polls, but in others it was as low as five. In the community's lone contest, George Batten and Stanley Smoyer ran for Republican county committeeman in the second township district, tied for the job with 43 votes apiece. A withdrawal by one or a run-off seemed the only solution.

Life Magazine will send a staff reporter here this weekend to check on possible use of production of "Hansel and Gretel" as a picture story. See News of the Theatres, page six.

You can rent your home for a ranch-type house; get a job selling, bookkeeping, doing secretarial work or accounting; find out about a smorgasbord supper and a bazaar;

beds, fur coats, jigsaw, baby scales, cars from $95 up; or hire a nurse (who speaks four languages) for your children. Just

Vote of Confidence. Monday night's program in the Nassau Tavern, a meeting to discuss "Operation Nassau" that was sponsored by the Business Association and the Eagles Lodge, drew an unusually large turnout. The number of members of the Business Association present totalled over 80 for one of its largest attendances on record, and by the time the question-and-answer period on "Operation Nassau" began, nearly 150 Princetonians were on hand.

Following the dinner, retailers present heard a talk by Herman C.
Thompson of the Trenton Office of Price Stabilization on the procedure they must follow in establishing ceiling prices on their merchandise before April 30. In virtually every field, hours upon hours of work with invoices issued in recent months, in checking sales volume and inventories and in preparing reports are involved.

Extension of the deadline appears unlikely, Mr. Thompson reported. Merchants who then do not comply by May 31 will be ordered to close their place of business entirely until they do so.

The second half of the meeting brought forth an interesting and at times lively debate on the merits of the plan devised to guide exterior development of the town's business section. It was ably presided over for "Operation Nassau" by Dilman M. K. Smith, a co-founder with Julian Garnsey.

If criticism of the aims of the program, or the manner in which they are carried out was expected at Monday night's session, it failed to materialize. A pictorial record of "Operation Nassau's" accomplishments, presented in colored slides, answered many questions before they were posed. Discussion followed on the advisability of enacting legislation to force certain types of color and design in the business district, but directors of "Operation Nassau" were unanimously in favor of continued persuasion through community opinion alone. At the end of the evening a prolonged round of applause was extended their volunteer efforts as a rousing vote of confidence.

Election Figures. Contrary to spending a day that often ran 18 to 20 hours, election board workers went home before 9 o'clock Tuesday night. They took with them the knowledge that pay would be $15 instead of $25 because hand tabulation was replaced by voting machines, but there was also hope that a bill now before the legislature would restore the pay cut by November.

With no contests at the county or municipal levels, balloting was lighter than many a veteran worker could remember. Complimentary vote totals in the borough:

Republicans — P. MacKay Sturges, mayor, 379; Charles J. Rocknik, council, 378; Tristan B. Johnson, council, 372; Wilbur F. Kerr, collector-treasurer, 378; Harry B. Warren, assessor, 380. Democrat — Dan D. Coyle, council, 168; Alexander Zavelle, council, 163.

In the township, Republicans Albert Salzman, committee, 266; Joseph Nini, clerk, 266; William Geddes, collector-treasurer, 251. No Democrats were on the ballot.

Quadruped's Sanctuary. Stray and injured small animals will now find a haven through the efforts of the newly-formed Princeton Small Animal Rescue League. It has been organized to succeed and supplement the services formerly carried on by the S.P.C.A.

In addition to medical care to be provided by Dr. Russell S. Edmonds, Province Line Road veterinarian, an adoption service is being planned. The public is asked to assist the league by taking injured or stray animals during ordinary business hours to Dr. Edmonds, or if necessary, to telephone him at 2293. Emergency calls at other hours go to G. Howard Hunt, 176-W. Miss Emily Myrick (600) should be consulted on matters of securing pets or homes for small animals.

Mrs. P. MacKay Sturges heads the league, with Mrs. Hamilton Cottier, vice-president; Mrs. Albridge C. Smith, 3d, secretary, and Mrs. Allan W. Stephens, treasurer. Directors, in addition to the foregoing, are Mrs. A. Ludlow Kramer, Mrs. Charles F. Mapes, John P. Pue, C. Crawford Spragg and Mrs. Joseph Weber.

We are quite intrigued over the unlimited possibilities of adopting "small animals," with no apparent limitations on their exact size or nature. It's quite a temptation to apply for one of those three-letter, three-toed so-and-so's we never could identify in crossword puzzles. Our request goes in as soon as we can think of the name.

Honors for Drake, Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, will honor its 26 living past commanders and pay tribute to four who have died at ceremonies planned for Wednesday night at 8 in the

Each year House Beautiful devotes one issue to its now famous Pace-Setter house—a dream home perfect from patio to pantry, incorporating the best of what in the past few years has become known as the American style and highlighting contemporary furniture, fabrics and floor-covering which have their grass roots in the best of our architectural past . . . yet unlike slavish copies, conform to our growing casual way of living.

And this year Princeton Decorating, 32 Nassau Street, along with other fine shops throughout the country, features the Pace-Setter group . . . especially the fabrics which F. Schumacher and Co. has developed for curtains and draperies, upholstery, slipcovers and bedspreads. The patterns and textures of the entire group (there are 13 Pace-Setter fabrics), like all the other furnishings in the house, stem from completely American design idioms—Shaker weavings . . . old damask . . . butter molds . . . a feather trunk . . . a straw breadbox . . . a laundry sign. Nowhere is there any lessening of those purely modern standards—long wear, and washability—that we've come to expect in even modest-priced materials.

If you'd like a Sunday drive you might consider an inspection trip to the actual Pace-Setter house—this year on exhibition at 57 Judson Avenue, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends under the auspices of the Junior League of Bronxville. Proceeds from the $1 admission fee will benefit charity. But even if that is not your cup of tea—a trip to Princeton Decorating will bring you pictures as well as the actual feel of the materials and floor covering used in the house.

We'll be the first to admit that the subject of outdoor dining is not without controversy, but will take a chance at adding fuel to the barbecue by describing a few of the accoutrements of same we've come across in the shops.

First at the Cummins Shop, 96 Nassau Street, as handsome a selection as we've seen of simple-as-salt salad bowls. These are selected red birch and come in a whole array of sizes from individual bowls at $1 to a whopping big 22-inch at $22.

At the same place—two late editions to the famous Gourmet line of ovenware (translated from the French—but we think, a great deal

News of the Theatres

McCARTER THEATRE

Hansel and Gretel (Tues.) will be staged by the Community Players, with dancing by Audree Estey's ballet group, as the final program in the Children's Entertainment Series. These popular productions are sponsored by the borough parent-teacher association. Curtain-time is 3:30.

The operetta, gaily costumed and provided with imaginative scenery, is being directed by Mrs. Blackwell Smith. Principal parts have been assigned to Philip Kopper and Barbara Dilley in the title roles; Mrs. Earl Taylor and Professor Allyn Downer as their mother and father, and Mrs. Mary Phillips as the witch.

In all, some 200 residents of the Princeton area will have a part in planning and producing the show. Life Magazine considers it a community dramatic venture of sufficient stature to cover it photographically for possible inclusion in one of its future issues.

Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Oscar Sussman, 46 Linden Lane (tel. 3647). They will also be available at the box office an hour before the show.

Orchestra Debut. Next Thursday night will mark the first performance of the newly-formed Princeton Symphony Orchestra, a 65-piece musical unit composed of residents of this area. Nicholas Harsanyi, a member of the Roth String Quartet and former concert master of the Budapest Symphony Orchestra, is the director.

Mme. Agi Jambor, a pianist who has been received with favor when she appeared here with the Westminster Choir College Orchestra, will be featured as the soloist. The program will include Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Op. 20; Haydn's Symphony No. 104; Piano Concerto No. 2 by Chopin; Adagio for Strings by Barber; and Berlioz' March from the "Damnation of Faust." Tickets ($1.20, $1.80, $2.40) at the University Store.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Father's Little Dividend (Thurs.-Sat.) is the sequel to "Father of the Bride," last year's successful comedy in which Spencer Tracy endured many a hectic and harassing moment while marrying off his daughter (Elizabeth Taylor.) Now, as she is about to enter motherhood, Mr. Tracy's reactions at becoming a prospective grandfather are the basis for the new picture. It's got its share of humor, blended with sentiment, but like many a sequel, is short of the mark set by its predecessor.

Up Front (Sun. - Tues.), which took its cue from Bill Mauldin's famed cartoons on the lot of the foot-weary GI in World War II, provides an amusing, realistic story of the Italian campaign. David Wayne and Tom Ewell are cast as a pair of battle-wise infantrymen who have almost as much trouble with a smug, green Army captain (Jeffrey Lynn) as they do with the enemy. Nicely played throughout.

The Mating Season (Wed.-Sat.) is close to a one-woman show as Thelma Ritter gives an expert performance in the role of the down-to-earth mother of a social-climbing son. He marries into a circle of bluebloods and refuses to reveal her identity as a short order cook in a hash house, even when she is hired to work in his wife's kitchen. The plot unfolds in amusing and warm-hearted fashion, although it makes the major error of trying to cast the son as a sympathetic character.

THE GARDEN

Cry Danger (Fri.-Sat.) casts Richard Powell as a fall guy in a world of crime, most of whose characters are battling each other for possession of a $100,000 payroll. The action is fast and violent if occasionally inconsistent, with the acting above average.

Mutiny on the Bounty (Mon.-Tues.) casts Charles Laughton in the well-known role of Captain Bligh, the film character who has gone down into history as one of the most hateful ever created. The robust story of a British crew which rebelled against the harsh and unfair rule of its officers, a picture first released some 15 years ago, it still makes a stirring adventure piece. With Clark Gable, Franchot Tone.

Operation Disaster (Wed.-Thurs.), British-made, is the record of a

The free course will be given from Tuesday through Friday, with registration possible through the Family Service Bureau, 120 John Street.

Several hundred art lovers will gather here next weekend for the fifth annual convention of the Esther Stevens Brazer Guild of Early American Decoration. Two days of demonstrations, lectures and exhibits of stenciling and freehand decoration of tin, furniture and other articles are on the program, with topics including the application of bronze and gold leaf and the handpainting of glass and tinware. Meetings are scheduled for the McCarter Theatre, with exhibits at the Princeton Inn.

IF YOU HAVE a special mailing piece (leaflets, folders, catalogs, color-work, etc.) you can have them sent to as many as 5,100 addresses. You may also select specific areas and communities. The cost is a fraction of a cent per piece when run off on an electric addressing machine. For details, call TOWN TOPICS, 2326

The New Jersey Poll

TRUMAN'S POPULARITY OFF SHARPLY SINCE MAY 1950, NEW JERSEY VOTERS SHOW

(Note: The following survey was, of course, made before President Truman's relieved General MacArthur of his command. Next week, the New Jersey Poll, an independent research service sponsored by leading newspapers in the state, hopes to report the public's reaction to that move by the President.)

A little less than nine months ago, fighting broke out in Korea. Since then, we have entered into a period of partial mobilization, have declared a state of national emergency and have witnessed U.S. Senate investigations into the workings of the RFC and big-time gambling.

Just what effect have these and other events of the past months had on President Truman's popularity?

A recently completed survey by the New Jersey Poll throws some light on this question. When today's findings are compared with those reported by the New Jersey Poll on May 11, 1950, it is quite evident that Mr. Truman is considerably less popular with the rank and file of New Jersey voters today than he was 11 months ago.

Last May, the New Jersey Poll reported that a majority (56%) of the New Jersey voters approved of the way the President was doing his job. At that time, only 36% expressed disapproval. In other words, Mr. Truman's popularity has slumped.

Memo to Princetonians

Re: READERSHIP AND RESULTS

The Clothes Line gets such a run on articles mentioned in 'It's New to Us' that it checks its inventory to be sure of a sufficient supply before the issue appears.

April 14, 1951

Dear TOWN TOPICS:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my great appreciation for your column, "It's New to Us."

Last week, after you told of the sailcloth separates by White Stag and the "Drip 'n' Dry" fabrics, we had a steady stream of requests for them. These highly traceable results lasted over a period of several days.

We hesitate to have any item written up in "It's New to Us," unless we have a large quantity of it to sell.

Many thanks — and I hope you will continue this sort of service to advertisers and readers for a long time.

Sincerely,

NINA U. LORD

SPORTS IN SHORT

Regatta Day. The gathering place for sports minded Princetonians split a pair of 4-3 decisions last week but regrettably lost the second one as far as success in the Eastern League goes. After going 11-6 in the Kingman division, six races were to be staged in the annual Penn Cup Regatta on Wednesday and 3 Saturday. Saturday's race was won by the Princeton Field and now must wait its turn among seven entries in the circuit to be sure of a good shot at the title. The Orange and Black are expected to draw a crowd of 3,000 or better for Sunday's sunshiny races at Bay Churh. Weathered a rocky the season.

Part of the turn out will result from the enjoyment to be had in sitting on a grassy bank near a lake under blue skies. But a major portion of the crowd will be on hand as a result of the regatta's starring actors. Last evening Princeton had made the Nassau crewmen a clear favorite to take the Childs Cup from Penn, the 1950 winner. Columbia and Rutgers will make it a four-way fight, but the Quakers are figured to give Dutch Schoob's entry its stiffest battle.

Stroking with having one of the top sprint crews in the East, Navy took an early lead over Princeton in the mile and three-quarters dash. Last Friday, Princeton had to drop to last but Thursday night the team dropped to 9th, recouped after an early-closing race, was seven seconds better than Harvard's performance in winning the Champion Cup a year ago.

Earlier in the day, the Navy jerseys had roved in front all the way to win but had seen their margin cut from three-quarters of a length to a scant quarter for a length Princeton held, only to have the Orange and Black pull away from it.

At the finish, with the Tiger close to a length, with the Navy still hitting the line just before the Princeton boat, the official time issued an intentional pass after a double stent gave up seconds. The Tigers then jumped on John Wilson for two singles and two double stents, for four, four total, and won the race.

It was a different and sadder story in New York Saturday. The Tigers took Kermitt Tracy for an unearned run in the third, but scored two in the fifth. Every boat had 20 strokes to win by something over a deck length, so the Orange and Black, however, for the Navy, won the race.

On Saturday, the two teams saw victories upon the day's activities with a stirring triumph over the Navy phebes. The first-year boat from Ann Arbor was in front with a quarter mile to go when the young Tigers caught them. Princeton had 20 strokes to win by something over a deck length, so the Orange and Black, however, for the Navy, won the race.

more hardy). A four-quart casserole with rabbit-ear handles is $4.50 and a new flat oval scallop dish comes in pint to four-quart sizes and a $1 to $5 price range.

Also for believers in the "cook inside-eat outside" school of thought, there will be soon a new line of heavy cast-iron ovenware from Sweden that has an opaque greyed enamel finish decorated with the usual Scandinavian blue flowers to make it presentable at the table. Any of these should keep food steaming on the table for at least one-half hour. Along the same line, whether you cook indoors or out, Mr. Deyo has a wrought iron vigil light to fit the "French" casseroles which though it won't cook food will keep it hot indefinitely.

Zavelle's, on Palmer Square, does a twist on this same theme with another wrought iron stand—this one a baby barbecue that does canapés to a turn on a tiny spit. Fun at a conversational $9.95.

Also at Zavelle's for your most relaxed guests, the perennial Lazy Susan in natural wood but at a nice new $6.50 price which includes a pair of salt and peppers and two condiment jars, plus a handle to let you pick it up like a cake plate.

Back to the Cummins Shop for a moment, we forgot to mention that plastic, which certainly goes with Summer and outdoor entertaining, is very much in evidence in a new placemat design that edges a raft of solid colors with what looks to us like white braiding. Simple enough to go with pottery and wooden things, these go for 75c each, with matching or contrasting linen napkins for a mere 60c.

We could go on and on, but a few jottings will have to suffice. The Better Mousetrap, 164 Nassau Street, has permanently settled the "keep it on ice" question with its Pailmaster, a wonderful gadget that resolves down in the final analysis to a plain everyday mop pail covered with insulated plastic that keeps whatever you put in it cold for hours. A very neat trick—and one you might remember when you must carry frosted foods or ice cream on long hauls. The price for all this refrigeration is around $10.

But nothing is any good unless you have something to put in it, and we think we discovered a real find when a friend of ours started to sell the scrumptious brownies she's been baking for her family and friends. The basis of all this goodness is an old family recipe that uses such old-fashioned ingredients as real butter!

And the girl who turns the trick is Nannie Kimberly, 9 Southern Way, who will deliver you two or more pans of these mouth-watering goodies for $1.25 a pan if you live in town. Twelve hours notice is necessary to let her get the moppets tucked away and the kitchen cleared for action. You can call her at 3024.

If you believe in signs of spring you'll drive in soon for that spring change-over to Happy Motoring.

JERSEY POLL

ed sharply from what it was in May, 1950.

When New Jersey Poll staff reporters put the following question to an accurate cross-section of New Jersey voters:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Truman is handling his job as President?"

The results were:

	Today	May, 1950
Approve	38%	56%
Disapprove	55	36
No opinion	7	8

An analysis of the views of the various population groups in the state highlights even further the change in sentiment that has taken place in New Jersey since last May.

Perhaps the most significant finding is the way independent voters—the group that holds the balance of power in every election—feel about the President. Truman. Independents questioned in today's survey disapprove of the way he is doing his job by a margin of about 2 to 1. Last May, independents expressed approval of the President by a margin of 3 to 2.

The vote by political party affiliation follows:

	Ind.	Dem.	Rep.
Approve	32%	52%	23%
Disapprove	61	37	75
No opinion	7	11	2

Other major changes in attitude toward the President since last May are those among manual workers and labor union members. Majority sentiment in these groups today disapproves of the way Harry S. Truman is doing his job. Last May, both groups expressed overwhelming approval.

	Labor Union	Manual
Approve	36%	40%
Disapprove	55	52
No opinion	9	8

Worthy of particular mention, too, is that the majority sentiment in all other population subdivisions measured disapprove of the way the country's chief executive is handling his job. These groups include all age levels, occupations, city sizes, men and women and World War II veterans.

Horse Racing Backed. With the race track season in New Jersey soon to open, how do the rank and file of the state's voters feel on the matter of permitting horse racing in the state?

Results of a survey recently completed show that a majority of the New Jersey adult public (62%) say that if it were up to them, they would continue horse racing at the three state tracks, where under the law they are permitted to operate. At the same time, a sizeable minority group of Jerseyites—one in every four—say that if they could have their way, horse racing would not be permitted in New Jersey.

These were the findings when New Jersey Poll staff reporters personally asked a cross-section of Jersey citizens in some 45 different communities in 18 of the state's 21 counties:

"If you could have your way, would you stop horse racing in New Jersey, or would you allow it to continue the way it is now?"

Would stop racing	25%
Allow it to continue	62

COACH AND CAPTAIN OF BALL TEAM BATTING FOR THE EASTERN LEAGUE TITLE

Emerson Dickman (left), who has steered the Tigers to two first-place finishes in his two seasons at Princeton, and Will Prior, currently hitting .444. The team plays Navy in an important league game Saturday, 2:30.

The latter also includes Hopewell, Manville, Lambertville, Titusville and New Hope. Games will be played on Friday afternoons and Wednesday evenings, with application made to the high school for use of its field.

The Princetonians play their first two contests away from home, opening Sunday at Titusville and going against Hopewell the following week. They'll meet New Hope here on May 6.

Action in the Twin-M League will not start until next month, and it appears that only five teams will be members this year. Rocky Hill, Hopewell and Plainsboro have dropped out of last year's organization, with a number of players from the latter squad joining forces with Princeton. As in the past, games will be played Monday and Thursday.

The Princetonian scene will be different this Spring in that Tom Brophy will no longer be managing the Tigtown entry. He'll be on hand to pitch, catch or play second and lend his constant enthusiasm but the managerial duties have been taken over by Jack Petrone, who's been a member of the team for a number of seasons.

Short Notes. The most important intercollegiate lacrosse game of the 1951 season will include the Nassau team as a participant on Saturday, but unfortunately is not scheduled for the Princeton area. It will be played in Baltimore, between Johns Hopkins and a Tiger team which many of its followers feel will replace the Bluejays as national champions this year.

Last Spring, Hopkins edged out a good Princeton aggregation by 9-8 for the Orange and Black's only loss to a college opponent. The Baltimore ten is a bit weaker now because of graduation losses, while Ferris Thomsen's aggregation appears to be better than the team which lost only to the Bluejays and Mount Washington a year ago. The 10-4 triumph over Mount Washington shook up lacrosse-mad Baltimore.

JERSEY JOURNAL

If he had smoked before while filling automobile tanks, it wouldn't always work. Seconds after he'd been warned against it by the car's owner, a five-foot geyser of flame shot out and burning gasoline sprayed the service station area.

In South Old Bridge, firemen were heated up by fires they were not fighting. They charged that Old Bridge firemen were sneaking into their territory with lights out and sirens still and putting out fires before they could get to them.

In Asbury Park, Harry Rousell wasn't so sure that honesty was the best policy. When he went into the income tax collector's office to make certain there were no errors on his return, Uncle Sam's agent recognized him as the man who had broken into his car two weeks earlier and had him sentenced to four months in jail.

In Riverside, mice felt they had virtually belied the cat when the borough council passed an ordinance prohibiting any family from keeping more than two of them. The action followed protests from neighbors of one household which had 39 cats called home.

In Newark, Frank O'Neil found a menu offering "broiled sirloin steak, bread and fried potatoes for 15 cents—everything else in proportion." His dream ended when he noted that the bill of fare was printed in 1892.

In Elizabeth, police figured they would have an easy time spotting a thief by the goods he had stolen. They were looking for a man who had made off with a 50-foot steel tower.

In Weehawken, a bus driver found he couldn't operate his vehicle properly when a woman passenger's back-seat driving became overly annoying, had her arrested for "verbal abuse."

In Trenton, police who summoned the owner of a store in which a short circuit had set off the burglar alarm noted that the place was called The Fixit Shop.

In Jersey City, Scott Eek, manager of a large dance hall, was considerably relieved when police safely removed a large and hitherto unidentified object from a storage closet in the building. An Army ordnance unit confirmed their diagnosis that the "thing" was a large, live land mine.

In Fieldsboro, the tax collector knew that if he didn't make the acquaintance of every one in town while they lived there, he would before they left. A law was passed requiring persons planning to move away to get a permit from him showing their taxes had been paid in full.

In Red Bank, mothers who asked for more patrolmen at busy intersections near the school got the job themselves. When Police Chief Frank Reuther said he didn't have enough men to go around, six mothers volunteered for traffic duty.

In Trenton, when Wesley H. Van Buren tore up a traffic ticket as soon as the policeman handed it to him, the judge told him he was acting like a child. As punishment, he got a schoolchild's sentence: writing "I will always obey the order of a traffic policeman" 500 times.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

submarine which sank at sea. Authentic scenes of rescue operations feature a well-told story that generally holds the interest.

The Redhead and the Cowboy (Fri.-Sat.), set in New Mexico in 1865, offers a variety of killings that lead up to a gold train robbery. Union and Confederate soldiers who are refugees from battle engage in various forays more likely to benefit themselves than their respective causes. Second-rate acting and a confused plot make it a poor bet for any but 100 percent western fans.

Princeton's score of 112 2 3 points to 26 for Rutgers may be an all-time high in track records at Old Nassau. The Tigers took 15 of 16 firsts and swept seven events in the one-sided affair. Meanwhile, the Nassau freshmen were bettering their older contemporaries by toppling the Scarlet wearlings, 123 to 16.

The Seton Hall relays will occupy the Tigers this weekend, with the Penn Relays on tap next Friday and Saturday. Princeton High will also have entries in both these events.

There's bad news on the television front for those who enjoyed seeing Princeton play in Palmer Stadium last fall without going to the games. The N.C.A.A. has asked for a one-year ban on full-scale televising of a season's contests, with the result that each college will probably put one game on its schedule into TV sets.

As the industry grows, network programming of one college's games is unlikely to be offered, as it was in Princeton's case last fall. Both the television stations and prospective sponsors will shop around for a program as soon as possible, not several weeks or months in advance. Before that, the N.C.A.A. ban will have to be lifted, so that there are many factors which point to the 1950 season as the last when Princetonians could be sure of bringing Palmer Stadium action into their homes at the flick of a dial.
